INTRODUCTION

This introduction is adapted from the Stop LAPD Spying Coalition's research report AUTOMATING BANISHMENT: THE SURVEILLANCE AND POLICING OF STOLEN LAND (published in November 2021 and available in printable and digital formats with an interactive map at automatingbanishment.org) as well as the work of the Los Angeles Community Action Network's COMMUNITY WATCH program.

Policed by LAPD's notorious Central Division, the Skid Row neighborhood of downtown Los Angeles is where the city has long tested new forms of policing, surveillance, criminalization, neglect, and abandonment. This makes the empowerment and liberation of Skid Row residents crucial in the broader fight to abolish these systems everywhere.

Starting in the mid 2000s, LAPD launched a series of data-driven policing programs that over time combined “broken windows” policing, community policing, and predictive policing. Skid Row was the first target of these experiments, with the launch of the Safer Cities Initiative (SCI) "broken windows" initiative in 2006.

During the first two years of SCI, “LAPD conducted 19,000 arrests, issued 24,000 citations as well as incarcerated 2,000 residents, and dismantled 2,800 self-made housing units” in Skid Row, a community of around 12,000 to 15,000 residents at the time. A 2008 study by law professor Gary Blasi and sociologist Forrest Stuart compared the frequency of certain offenses occurring where SCI was deployed to other parts of Central Division that were not targeted in the same way. Their study concluded that there is no statistically significant relationship between SCI and reductions in overall rates of serious crime.

As part of the Skid Row community's fight to document and end the violence of the SCI program, human rights organizers with the Los Angeles Community Action Network (LA CAN) launched Community Watch, a program of monitoring police activity.

Community Watch teams wore shirts with LA CAN's name and logo on them and at least one team member carried a camera. The team, as well as other residents they encountered, often filed LAPD misconduct complaints and raised ongoing complaints to the Los Angeles Board of Police Commissioners based on their documentation.

One resource that Community Watch teams developed to assist in their work documenting and exposing the violence of the Safer City Initiative was a physical book of photographs of LAPD officers. Community Watch teams used this book to identify officers for purposes of documenting and filing complaints about official misconduct.

This book that you're holding is a continuation of that work, assembled entirely using official records that LAPD made public based on the California Public Records Act, a law enacted in 1968 during the heyday of the civil rights movement.

CENTRAL DIVISION OFFICERS

This next section contains photographs and other information about the current personnel of LAPD's Central Division. All this information is drawn from official records that LAPD published based on the California Public Records Act. We can't vouch for the accuracy of this information beyond that. The information is only verifiable as of the date LAPD made them public (September 2022 for the photographs and January 2023 for names, serial numbers, ranks, and assignment to Central Division).

Because police can move between divisions or change ranks, the information in this book might be out of date. We plan to keep producing updated versions.
